Chairman’s Perspective
Ecclesiastes 3.1 To everything, there is a season
Warm greetings to our growing Optimum Health Institute community!

As we look forward to the rapidly approaching New Year and reflect back on 2013, our thoughts of what has and could have been merge with our hopes, dreams, and desires for the coming year. It truly is the time of the season for reflection and renewal. Just like in nature our human existence follows a similar pattern with one exception. Humans are blessed with free will to make choices either individually or collectively to transform ourselves, family, or community.

As we reflect on OHI, we find a vibrant community of guests, missionaries, and employees who love, serve, and remember each other the way our Creator intended. During 2013, we reviewed over 8,000 of your surveys from 2010-2013. Many of you mentioned the need to improve the furnishings and rooms as well as develop new classes.

Based upon your feedback, we have initiated a perfect rooms program which will be fully implemented over the next 30 months. OHI San Diego’s rooms will be remodeled including new laminate wood floors, environmentally safe paints in healing colors, chairs, desks and LED lamps with energy efficient ratings – all from sustainable resources, and as many materials and products as possible will be American-made. To date, improvements have already been completed in 10 rooms, and another 40 rooms in our courtyard have new furniture. We’re making similar improvements in classrooms.

OHI Austin is making dramatic landscape transformations, including a labyrinth, thanks in large part to generous donations. Austin also plans to add new bathrooms, creating more private queen rooms and single occupancy rooms with private bathrooms.

Although our townhouses are not a part of the main facilities, they will receive a facelift with new stucco, paint, and awnings. This work already has started and will be completed in mid-2014. In addition, the pool has new plaster and tile, along with a new dock and will continually be heated to 79 degrees throughout the year.

While renovating the living facilities was high on your list, you also requested more classes for graduates of the three-week program. I’m pleased to announce several new classes, to be launched in 2014:

• You’ll get hands-on experience creating tasty new dishes in our “Pray, Eat, Live” food prep class offered on Saturday afternoons launching the first week in February.....no more having to go offsite and the best part......it’s free!!!

• A new spirituality class will center on the healing practice of forgiveness.

• A new organic gardening class that is participatory scheduled for summer 2014.

• In addition, all of our existing classes are being updated.

Another hot topic – returning community members want to be recognized. With your continuing participation at OHI, we know you represent the heart and soul of creating a safe and sacred space for healing to occur. To honor your commitment, we’re creating an on-line reservation system for OHI program graduates who are community members and have an active e-mail account. The system will be up and running in the spring of 2014. Remember, lower rates will be found online and you will need an active e-mail account to participate, so update your e-mail address now.

Per your suggestion, OHI is taking a transformational dive into social media. We created a Facebook page for members to connect, and we’re pleased to see our Yelp and Google scores are consistently over 4 on a scale of 1 to 5. You’re giving us our team members high marks! We’re happy to see our additional team training and commitment to excellence reflected in your positive feedback.

Moving to where the need is the greatest, did you know that less than 1% of our budget comes from donations in San Diego and about 4% in Austin, but you’re starting to change that. This year our donations are up 50%. Thank you! Donating to the OHI Scholarship Program not only helps those in need, donations also support our ability to provide sustainable wages and benefits for our staff, and ongoing capital improvements. This year we will provide 70 scholarship weeks to those in need thanks to your generosity. Our goal for next year is to provide 200 scholarships. Please help us meet our goal.

In closing, thank you so much for sharing your thoughts through your surveys about your OHI experience, and being an important member of the OHI community. We support your commitment to continued transformation, and look forward to seeing you again soon.

God Bless,

Robert P. Nees, Jr.

New Renovations at OHI San Diego

While guests at the Optimum Health Institute (OHI) San Diego have been detoxing their bodies, we’ve been doing some design “detoxing” of our own.

We started with the Optimum Health Store. While it was always a wonderful resource for supplies to support bringing body, mind and spirit into balance, the feel of the store didn’t always a wonderful resource for supplies to support bringing body, mind and spirit into balance, the feel of the store didn’t effectively reflect that positive energy. Now, walls of warm maple and “spprou green” spring up from a beautiful cherry laminate wood floor. Clear glass shelves add airiness, and a glass door brings the vibrant landscape inside. Soothing music invites guests to browse books and DVDs while warm rich furniture pieces highlight some of our favorite products.

Similar warm, healing colors from nature are also now showing up in our rooms, townhouse facades and the pool.

Most of the guest rooms have new furniture while some have been completely reconditioned, with plans underway to update all. Carpeting was replaced with beautiful laminate wood floors, lighting was enhanced with the use of LED bulbs, Environmentally friendly paint in soothing earth tones compliments and completes the guest room enhancements.

Along with townhouse facades being restuccoed and painted in complementary nature tones, we gave the pool a “facelift.” New plaster, tile and decking give the pool a vibrant new look, and make it blend seamlessly into the updated townhouse design. New cushions for the pool-side chairs invite meditation and contemplation by the sparkling water which is heated to 79 degrees year-around.

Our vision is to use materials that are environmentally friendly and harvested from sustainable resources. And when possible, the materials are also American made. For your comfort and pleasure we anticipate having all the renovations completed by the end of 2014.

So you’ve experienced all three weeks of the Optimum Health Institute’s (OHI) God-centered holistic healing program. Your first week you ate the freshly prepared live, raw, organic vegan dishes the OHI kitchen staff lovingly prepared for you. Your second week, you tasted dehydrated “pizzas,” and other delicious foods created for you by the Third Weekers. Then, in your third week, you learned to make a live, raw, organic vegan feast yourself. You chopped, blended, shredded, dehydrated, fermented and juiced, and picked up some new skills to help you take the program home with you.

You asked us for additional OHI-compliant advanced food preparation class, and we listened.

We’re happy to announce a new Saturday class exclusively for guests who have completed OHI’s 3-week program. Pray, Eat, Live launches early next year, and will lead students through a culinary wonderland of live, organic, vegan delicacies that will inspire you to abandon processed foods forever. Created by our new Executive Chef Ken Dorr, the 2.5 hour class will empower students to create a tempting array of OHI approved dishes – including some cooked foods for those on the maintenance diet – and plan healthy appetizers, meals, snacks and desserts.

Recipes on the menu for Pray, Eat, Live include:

- Buckwheaties
- Raw (but warm) Cauliflower Soup
- Oil-Free Pesto Sauce
- Chipotle Sun-Dried Tomato Dip
- Dehydrated Almond Coconut Cookies

The class will be held in room 78, also known as the Graduate’s Kitchen.

Besides being a play on a popular autobiographical account of author Elizabeth Gilbert’s spiritual quest Eat, Pray, Love, the title of the class honors OHI’s commitment to empowering guests to bring body, mind and spirit into balance.

The word “pray” reminds us to always bless our food, and hold it in high spiritual regard. The word “eat” reminds us that eating is a way honor the temple that is our body. The word “live” reminds us that by eating right, we can live a long and healthy life.

Pray, Eat, Live will give guests who have completed the three-week OHI holistic healing program more kitchen skills, and new ideas for creating healthy and still delicious dishes that family members and friends will also enjoy. Students currently in the third week of the program will also be eligible to take the class.

 Colon hydro-therapy services for OHI are offered by an independently operated third-party service partner.

Walk the Labyrinth at OHI Austin

Labyrinths have been used for thousands of years in various cultures to symbolize a sacred journey towards spiritual renewal. Walking a labyrinth encourages the body to move and results in the release of nervous energy and the attunement of focus, clarity and a calmer mental state. In this quiet, contemplative state, communion with God can ensue, overall well-being improves – wholeness and healing occur.

Unlike a maze, which has tricks in its twists and turns, the labyrinth has a single path to its center, making it a peaceful experience. The labyrinth is symbolic of an inner walk to better listen to the soul’s longings. Dr. Lauren Artress, a pioneer in the resurgence of labyrinths in the early 90’s, described the process of walking the path as one of releasing, receiving and returning. It is a unique experience for each person. It is a spiritual practice that can quiet the mind and open one to spiritual guidance.

In January 2013, I set an intention to build a labyrinth at OHI Austin and hung a picture of a labyrinth on my office wall as a reminder to meet my intention. A short time later, an OHI Austin missionary donated a $100 bill and I pinned it to the labyrinth picture. Then a short time after that, a guest donated a generous amount in dedication to the memory of her husband. Not long after, another guest made another generous donation toward this project. Between these three individuals, we now have $18,100 in donations allocated to building our labyrinth. We hope to complete our labyrinth in 2014. However, before construction can begin, we still need to finalize designs, prepare the ground and raise additional funds. Any and all of your donations, no matter how large or small, will be greatly appreciated in completing this project.

Saint Augustine believed that a walk could solve all problems. Perhaps because it allows us an opportunity to listen in a manner we have not done before. We look forward to having a labyrinth available for guests to enjoy in 2014.

Blessings on your journey,
Lou Ann King

Savor the Beauty of OHI Austin

Brilliant splashes of bluebonnets, Indian paintbrush, primrose, fire wheels and golden Rudbeckia. A walking path meandering through a wooded thicket. Branches entwined to make a striking bridge over a rock calvert. At Optimum Health Institute (OHI) Austin, spending quiet contemplative time immersing yourself in the exquisite landscape is an important part of the optimum experience.

Our OHI Austin mission rests in a nurturing countryside setting on 14 acres in central Texas, just 16 miles east of Austin. It will delight, inspire and motivate you in a whole new way. At OHI Austin, we effectively use both forest and meadow to create a 1.5 mile hiking trail that provides a diverse, engaging backdrop to each guest’s inner journey.

New outdoor furniture, made from sustainable wood, invites guests to sit and reflect on their spiritual connection to nature, and all life. The landscape features were installed last year and are now filling in for a lush, engaging presence.

Guests have their choice of two major meditation areas. One, across from the main entrance of the building, has three interwoven circles to represent the body, mind, and spirit. The area where the three circles converge symbolizes a holistic being. The second spot is a sitting area near the pool. Whether you are taking the time to sit and quiet your mind or floating in the pool, this area offers the perfect opportunity to experience a contemplative state with a breathtaking view of the tiered-flower garden and the expansive, natural haven beyond.

I started to have severe stomach issues when I was 10, and learned from my chiropractor that health comes from the inside out. After his adjustments all the old issues – stomach upset, migraines, headaches – began to disappear. I decided I wanted to be a chiropractor. Now my husband and I have a holistic practice in Moorpark, California.

In 2010, I was diagnosed with breast cancer, and had a double mastectomy. I refused radiation, and instead found the Optimum Health Institute online. I booked a week in early 2011.

During my first week, I experienced an electrical sensation from the center of my chest to my armpit – kind of like a blanket being pulled over my body, and the Lord said, “You are healed, you are healed, you are healed!” I could completely raise my arms over my head without pain for the first time since the surgery.

After that dramatic event, I decided to stay for a second week so I could really learn all the details of food preparation and combining, and take this new way of eating home.

My energy level is higher, I’m mentally more clear, and I’m getting patients who have similar food issues and health opportunities. I can certainly vouch for how closely emotions, foods and disease are tied together, and I’m helping my patients understand the links.

I’ve also had a lot of success incorporating the OHI plan into my daily life. My 9-year-old son is really liking fresh fruits and vegetables, and my husband’s diabetes is under control now that we’re all having greens for breakfast, lunch and dinner!

I tell my patients how the raw food diet can change body chemistry 100%, and the 80-20 rule means a healthy life. I want people to know they DO have options – healthy ones — to help their bodies come back into balance naturally.

You asked us for additional OHI-compliant advanced food preparation class, and we listened.

We’re happy to announce a new Saturday class exclusively for guests who have completed OHI’s 3-week program. Pray, Eat, Live launches early next year, and will lead students through a culinary wonderland of live, organic, vegan delicacies that will inspire you to abandon processed foods forever. Created by our new Executive Chef Ken Dorr, the 2.5 hour class will empower students to create a tempting array of OHI approved dishes – including some cooked foods for those on the maintenance diet – and plan healthy appetizers, meals, snacks and desserts.

Recipes on the menu for Pray, Eat, Live include:

- Buckwheaties
- Raw (but warm) Cauliflower Soup
- Oil-Free Pesto Sauce
- Chipotle Sun-Dried Tomato Dip
- Dehydrated Almond Coconut Cookies

The class will be held in room 78, also known as the Graduate’s Kitchen.

Besides being a play on a popular autobiographical account of author Elizabeth Gilbert’s spiritual quest, Eat, Pray, Love, the title of the class honors OHI’s commitment to empowering guests to bring body, mind and spirit into balance.

The word “pray” reminds us to always bless our food, and hold it in high spiritual regard. The word “eat” reminds us that eating is a way honor the temple that is our body. The word “live” reminds us that by eating right, we can live a long and healthy life.

Pray, Eat, Live will give guests who have completed the three-week OHI holistic healing program more kitchen skills, and new ideas for creating healthy and still delicious dishes that family members and friends will also enjoy. Students currently in the third week of the program will also be eligible to take the class.
New Renovations at OHI San Diego

While guests at the Optimum Health Institute (OHI) San Diego have been detoxing their bodies, we’ve been doing some design “detoxing” of our own.

We started with the Optimum Health Store. While it was always a wonderful resource for supplies to support bringing body, mind and spirit into balance, the feel of the store didn’t always a wonderful resource for supplies to support bringing body, mind and spirit into balance, the feel of the store didn’t effectively reflect that positive energy. Along with townhouse facades being restuccoed and painted in complementary nature tones, we gave the pool a “facelift.” New plaster, tile and decking give the pool a vibrant new look, and make it blend seamlessly into the updated townhouse design. New cushions for the pool-side chairs invite meditation and contemplation by the sparkling water which is heated to 79 degrees year-around.

Our vision is to use materials that are environmentally friendly and harvested from sustainable resources. And when possible, the materials are also American made. For your comfort and pleasure we anticipate having all the renovations completed by the end of 2014.

While, we will provide 70 scholarship weeks to those in need thanks to your generosity. Our goal for next year is to provide 200 scholarships. Please help us meet our goal.

In closing, thank you so much for sharing your thoughts through your surveys about your OHI experience, and being an important member of the OHI community. We support your commitment to continued transformation, and look forward to seeing you again soon.

God Bless,

As we look forward to the rapidly approaching New Year and reflect back on 2013, our thoughts of what has and could have been merge with our hopes, dreams, and desires for the coming year. It truly is the time of the season for reflection and renewal. Just like in nature our human existence follows a similar pattern with one exception. Humans are blessed with free will to make choices either individually or collectively to transform ourselves, family, or community.

As we reflect on OHI, we find a vibrant community of guests, missionaries, and employees who love, serve, and remember each other the way our Creator intended. During 2013, we reviewed over 8,000 of your surveys from 2010-2013. Many of you mentioned the need to improve the furnishings and rooms as well as develop new classes.

Based upon your feedback, we have initiated a perfect rooms program which will be fully implemented over the next 30 months. OHI San Diego’s rooms will be remodeled including new laminate wood floors, environmentally safe paints in healing colors, chairs, desks and LED lamps with energy efficient ratings – all from sustainable resources, and as many materials and products as possible will be American-made. To date, improvements have already been completed in 10 rooms, and another 40 rooms in our courtyard have new furniture. We’re making similar improvements in classrooms.

Although our townhouses are not a part of the main facilities, they will receive a facelift with new stucco, paint, and awnings. This work already has started and will be completed in mid-2014. In addition, the pool has new plaster and tile, along with a new deck and will continually be heated to 79 degrees throughout the year.

While renovating the living facilities was high on your list, you also requested more classes for graduates of the three-week program. I’m pleased to announce several new classes, to be launched in 2014:

- You’ll get hands-on experience creating tasty new dishes in our “Pray, Eat, Live” food prep class offered on Saturday afternoons launching the first week in February. …no more having to go offsite and the best part……it’s free!!!
- A new spirituality class will center on the healing practice of forgiveness.
- A new organic gardening class that is participatory scheduled for summer 2014.
- In addition, all of our existing classes are being updated.

Another hot topic – returning community members want to be recognized. With your continuing participation at OHI, we know you represent the heart and soul of creating a safe and sacred space for healing to occur. To honor your commitment, we’re creating an on-line reservation system for OHI program graduates who are community members and have an active e-mail account. The system will be up and running in the spring of 2014. Remember, lower rates will be found online and you...
